Good evening, everybody.
Nice weather we're having.
Do your Xmas shopping early.
County fair opens Nov. 23.
Keep your head cool and your feet
dry and you won't have bad colds.
Ever see anybody with a good cold?
One good thing about cold feet.
Keep you out of poker games.
Did you ever see so many young married couples?
Or so many pretty babies?
Going to be a great country after awhile.
Well, here we all are again.
Riding up Salt river on a raft.
Salt river seems just the same.
No change in the scenery.
Two things the democratic party
can do.
Ride a mule and navigate Salt river.
Do either with better grace than the republicans.
Democrats know about every foot
of Salt river.
And have its soundings to an inch.
That's one place where they never run aground.
Seems like old times to be beaten
again, doesn't it?
Should be sinful for a democrat to smile.
Then why are we all grinning?
Cause we are pretty well used to it.
Also because we're good sports.
Bruce Meffert is elected.
That's the principal difference between him and Cox.
Another is that Jimmy did his darndest.
And Bruce didn't care a darn.
Jimmy put up a good fight.
Had the republicans running in circles.
They were just as badly scared as us for a while.
It wasn't the republicans that beat Jimmy.
It was that bunch of babes in the wood that Wilson appointed to office.
They made even democrats tired.
Prexy Wilson is a mighty fine man.
But appointing competent men to office is not his long suit.
His great deeds will live centuries;
his little ones will soon be forgotten.
Marion county has enough bonds.
She's told you she has.
Also put her foot down on it.
Star's glad it correctly interpreted Marion county.
Knew it was doing it all the time.
We like to shoot the old sixpounder.
When there is a solid line of infantry between us and the enemy.

Can shoot it alone, tho'.
All the same as Captain Bragg at Buena Vista.

The women did nobly.
Most of them voted just like we did.

Looks nice to have them around the polls, too.

When we are in a crowd of women
at the polls, one of them may hang a wad of chewing gun on our coat tail.

But she won't blow cabbage-tobacco smoke in our face.

Or spit tobacco juice on our shoes.

We can't help liking women, anyhow.

Most of them thought voting was
a picnic.

They'll be vote hounds hereafter.

They had a rather nice time yesterday.

The men saw to it that they did.

Went before them and made their paths straight.

A man is a brute but convenient to have around sometime.

Women made few mistakes marking their ballots.

Men had been showing them how.

Better pupils than other men.

And much nicer to teach.

Star slandered the women the other
day.

Said they hadn't studied bond
amendment.

Star's glad to say it lied.

Seem to have studied it just like we did.

And arrived at the same conclusion.

Women had better go to the city hall and register.

Perhaps Star will support full hen
ticket in city next year.

Here's where Harding gets on.

And Hi Johnson, Borah, Penrose, et
als, get off.

Harding is now elected.

He'll tell would-be bosses to step straight to Hades.

Unless we are very much mistaken
in him.

Georgia wouldn't let the women vote.

Georgia missed lots of fun.

'Bout time women voted in Georgia.

Men have forgotten how.

Had a nice, quiet, smooth election in Ocala.

Thanks to good disposition of the people generally.

And to Sheriff Galloway particularly.

They should have men like him in those counties where they have trouble.

He believes in curing trouble by preventing it.

And doesn't make any fuss about it,
either.

Star had good press service last night.

Western Union did nobly.

A. P. dispatches came singing thru.

Didn't seem to be any hog on the track anywhere.

A. P. can protect its members.

Even if they are away off the main line.

'Spect it spoke to somebody high up.

Now do you know why we have written all this darnphoolishness.

Because its "phat."

And we hadn't time to write anything else.

Thanks, in advance, to you for enduring it.

Good evening.

CONSTANTINOPLE A CITY OF MANY NATIONS

Constantinople, Oct. 7.—Americans
in Constantinople are finding life dull, uninteresting and devoid of diversion to entertainment. They have found to their disappointment that the Turkish capital has no theaters, no amusement centers, no seashore resorts, few moving picture houses and only one or two good restaurants.
The only places remotely resembling theaters are a few cheap cabaret halls which attract sailors, soldiers and wanderers of all nations, but never the Turk. The Turk finds his diversion in the coffee houses.

There is little night life in Constantinople. After 10 o'clock the city is as still as a New England village on a Sabbath morning. Only the habitues of the coffee houses or the cabaret and beer halls are seen. Altho' prohibition is unknown, refreshments
at these local amusement places
come high. Whiskey is $1.50 a glass, and 7 per cent beer 90 cents.

Americans in the city amuse themselves by occasional dances, tea parties and week-end trips on the Bos-phorus. Not many of them enjoy entre to the Turkish homes. A three-months' stay in the city usually is enough to make them yearn for home.
There is now a considerable number of them here, most of them being connected with American relief organizations or commercial firms.

Although having a population of nearly 1,000,000, Constantinople has no taxicabs, few automobiles and only a single trolley line. Everybody walks or rides in the dilapidated horse-drawn carriages or nondescript street cars. People living in the suburbs crowd to suffocation the ferryboats plying the Bosphorus and the Golden Horn. The lone trolley line runs along the main street and suspends operation as often as the city runs out of coal, which is frequent.

The Turkish metropolis has only one or two good hotels. Here the merchants, political agents and commercial travelers of the world gather to discuss their affairs. The inform-ers and spies of the Orient mingle among them and carry on their intrigues. Nowhere are there so many strange and suspicious-looking characters. Richly-dressed women from Occident and Orient, bejeweled and painted, frequent the cafes and lounging rooms and carry on open flirtation with the guests. Constantinople has been well described as a city, not of one nation but of many.
The American visitor finds here an amazing diversity of faces, nationalities, languages and conflicting faiths.
There is no cohesion of society, no
civic unity. Only Saloniki or Port Said can rival the Turkish city for its cosmopolitanism and its babel of tongues.

Now Let's all go to Work to Make Good Times for Everybody Again

PRICES of the necessities and comforts of life are much lower than they were.
That means that everybody's money is worth more than it was. It means that people can now buy the things they want, and pay much less for them than heretofore....

Many goods we have been able to buy for less; so we shall sell them for less—giving every dollar of advantage possible to our customers. Many other goods, of which we had full stocks—even though we paid the higher prices for them—are now marked at lower prices, based on the market values, regardless of the losses that we must bear....

We all knew that this period of change had to come, and we knew that money had to be lost. But we are looking to the future
—working for the happier days when normal
prices shall rule again.

In the meantime we shall serve the people of this community, who are depending upon our service, to the best of our ability and regardless of the temporary disadvantages that we now face.
